In a world that is increasingly divided, it can be difficult to find hope. But in Canada, there is a growing movement of people who are working to build a better future for all. Lights of Hope is a collection of essays from some of Canada's leading thinkers and activists, who offer their insights on the challenges and opportunities facing our country.

The essays in Lights of Hope cover a wide range of topics, from the economy to the environment to social justice. But they all share a common theme: the belief that Canada can be a beacon of hope in a world that is often dark.

The authors of Lights of Hope come from diverse backgrounds, but they are united by their passion for Canada and their commitment to building a better future for all Canadians. They include:

- Margaret Atwood, author of The Handmaid's Tale and other acclaimed novels
- Naomi Klein, author of The Shock Doctrine and other books on globalization and climate change
- David Suzuki, environmental activist and broadcaster
- Jane Fonda, actress and activist
- Michael Ignatieff, former leader of the Liberal Party of Canada

The essays in Lights of Hope are a must-read for anyone who cares about the future of Canada. They offer a powerful and inspiring vision of a better future for our country.
