Antigua

Antigua is the larger of the two islands, and it is home to the capital city of St. John's. St. John's is a bustling city with a variety of shops, restaurants, and bars. It is also home to the Antigua and Barbuda Museum, which houses a collection of artifacts from the island's history.

In addition to St. John's, Antigua has a number of other popular tourist destinations. These include:

- Dickenson Bay: This is one of the most popular beaches on Antigua. It is known for its white sand and clear blue waters.
- Jolly Harbour: This is a large marina that is home to a variety of shops, restaurants, and bars. It is also a popular starting point for boat trips to other parts of the island.
- Nelson's Dockyard: This is a historic shipyard that was once used by the British Royal Navy. It is now a popular tourist destination, and it is home to a number of shops, restaurants, and museums.

Barbuda

Barbuda is the smaller of the two islands, and it is located about 30 miles north of Antigua. Barbuda is a much quieter island than Antigua, and it is known for its beautiful beaches and its relaxed atmosphere.

There are a number of popular tourist destinations on Barbuda, including:

- Pink Sand Beach: This is one of the most famous beaches in the Caribbean. It is known for its pink sand, which is caused by the presence of crushed coral.
- Barbuda Museum: This museum houses a collection of artifacts from the island's history.
- Coco Point Lodge: This is a luxury resort that is located on the island's north coast. It offers a variety of amenities, including a swimming pool, a spa, and a restaurant.
